Parent Information Center (PIC) Volunteer Advocate Training Program Application

PIC's Volunteer Advocate (VA) training program is a free 11-week (44-hour) course designed to assist parents and others in gaining the knowledge and skills to enhance their ability to support other parents of children with disabilities in the special education process, as well as to advocate effectively for their own children. The program and its requirements are described in the Volunteer Advocates for Special Education Training Program Description. Participants are expected to attend all training sessions and fulfill all of the program's requirements.

Please note that the program can only accommodate a limited number of participants each year, so acceptance is not guaranteed. Participant selection is made based on a number of factors, with preference given to parents of children/youth with disabilities and to applicants from areas or populations currently underrepresented in PIC's Volunteer Advocate network.

If you are interested in applying for the Volunteer Advocate training program, please complete an application form.

NH Transition Community of

Practice Events

*You can participate in these training
sessions in person
or from the comfort of your home!*

These free training events are focused on helping families successfully transition to life after high school. They're held the first Thursday of each month. If you can attend in person you can meet the speakers and other parents to share ideas or concerns with.
