The Moore Center Gives Back

Our staff is donating their time to help you!

In the spirit of “We’re all in this together,” The Moore Center is offering to give back to our community in this time of need.

Do you know someone who could use a little help with some light yard work? (it's free) Or maybe a free potted plant or flower pot to brighten their day? We have staff available to help!

You can make a request here, either for yourself or someone you know. This is open to anyone, of any age, who could use a helping hand or an emotional lift. Check out the details and make a request on our website.

New Hampshire Covid-19 Resources

The State of New Hampshire's Covid-19 website not only provides the latest statistics about how the pandemic is affecting the State, but it also has some very useful resources for residents.

There's lots of useful information on where to get testing, the proper use of facial coverings, where to get financial assistance, where to get food assistance, etc. The fliers about the availability of testing are also translated into 8 languages, plus there's an ASL video! It's well worth visiting!

Covid-19 Survival Guide - Family Edition

NH Department of Health & Human Services
Division for Children, Youth & Families

During these uncertain times, people across the country are experiencing unprecedented pressure. In addition to the ever-present priority to keep oneself healthy and safe, families are dealing with grief & loss, financial troubles and a host of other newly emerging pressures. Each family faces their own set of challenges, and at the heart of it all, are the parents.

The resources found within this guide are intended to not only outline how to access the many services that the Division for Children, Youth and Families is known for, but also to provide suggestions and links to resources that will help with many new challenges that families are facing across New Hampshire.

When Will This Be Over? Sesame Workshop's Tips For Parenting During A Pandemic

When is this gonna be over?

At the beginning of the pandemic, kids' questions were often easy enough to explain with a little science. What is COVID-19? Easy. How can we keep from getting it? There are no guarantees, but hand-washing works wonders!

Now, however, the top question in the minds of many kids — and adults — is, when will the coronavirus crisis end? And that one is mysterious and unexplainable. Still, it requires an honest answer, says Truglio, one that's hard for some parents to say: "I don't know."

Brain and Spinal Cord Injury Advisory Council Survey

The Brain and Spinal Cord Injury Advisory Council is charged pursuant to RSA 137:K with investigating the unmet needs of individuals with brain and spinal cord injuries through two public hearings held each year. This valuable information is compiled into an annual report which will be sent to the Governor, the Speaker of the House, the Senate President, the Commissioner of Health and Human Services and other stakeholders.

Since we are unable to hold the first of the two annual public hearings due to COVID-19, this survey will take the place of the public hearing.

Please visit the link below to complete the survey online before the deadline of June 19, 2020. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact Ellen Edgerly at (603)834-9570 or ellenedge@bianh.org.

DD Waiver Renewal Public Comment Opportunity

Are you an individual served on the DD Waiver? Attend an upcoming May listening session and offer your input. "The NH Department of Health and Human Resources (DHHS) wants your input as the Bureau of Developmental Services (BDS) begins the Developmental Disability (DD) Waiver renewal process.

Every 5 years the Centers for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS) requires that the state renew their Home and Community Based Care 1915 (c) waivers.

The waiver renewal process is lengthy and includes stakeholder input. BDS is working with the Institute on Disability (IOD) to deliver multiple May 2020 listening sessions statewide. BDS encourages people to participate in the listening sessions noted below or to provide input by email or mail.

Apple Boosts Assistance For Those With Disabilities

With the COVID-19 pandemic increasing reliance on technology, Apple says it is rolling out extra help for people with disabilities using its products for remote learning and other purposes.

Apple said Thursday that it is introducing a dedicated support team to address accessibility questions as well as a new support site and how-to videos focused on using such features.

In addition, the company is now offering one-on-one virtual coaching sessions for students with disabilities and their teachers who are engaged in remote learning. Click below to read the full article.
