New App Helps People in the Disability Community Make Friends

Making Authentic Friendships

Here's a new app that was recently released that gives people in the disability community the opportunity to connect with others to make friends. The connection can be made by special interest, location, age, gender and disability.

The founder and CEO of Making Authentic Friendships, Juliana, was inspired to create the App for her brother, who has Autism and ADHD. He was lonely due to his lack of social skills and ability to make friends. She will be sharing her story with us on Wednesday, May 5th at 6:30 p.m. via zoom (info below and in attached flyer) and explain more about the Making Authentic Friendships App.

In addition, the monthly fee of $4.99 (or $39.00 per year) has been approved by the State as an allowable expense. Since the State says it is approved and fits within the guidelines, people can use their budget or write a request to the Family Support Council if they need the money.

Join the Zoom event to discuss the app!

When: Wednesday, May 5th 6:30-7:30 p.m.

Who: Juliana, CEO and Founder of MAF, shares more about this newly released App.
