Biden's Budget Recommends $150 Billion for Home and Community-Based Services

Please join us in showing support!

Below is an alert from our national organization, ANCOR, inviting members to use the Advocacy Link in support of the President's proposed budget to increase funding for Home and Community Based Services (HCBS). This is a concrete way to help our system into the future.

This is very easy to navigate, and here are a couple of helpful hints:

- When you enter your name and address it

automatically
captures
your representatives

- There is a prepared summary of the language on the issue, so it's a very easy process
- You may want to change the subject line and add more commentary, if you feel prepared to do so
- You'll automatically receive an email from ANCOR confirming that

your submission
was received

You'll also receive a prepared response from all of you representatives to confirm their receipt.

Here's the message from ANCOR:

The White House's fiscal year 2024 budget blueprint was released this past Thursday, recommending $150 billion over 10 years to improve and expand home and community-based services, a significant win for providers and individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities who rely on these services.

Congress will now begin drafting their own budget, but is not expected to reveal any plans for several weeks. ANCOR will continue to advocate and work with stakeholders to ensure that the funding is allocated in a way that supports Medicaid services.

ANCOR encourages individuals with disabilities, their families, and providers to make their voices heard and push for increased funding for Medicaid by using our advocacy tool.
